

Science

National Science Week is held in August each year. It provides an opportunity for the entire science community to celebrate and showcase science to the Australian public and the world. The National Science Week website provides ideas and information on how to run your own science week event.