Notes regarding Designed Thing Submission

- Phil & CC worked on creating a structure to support the “mask” and Eyes,
- Zac completed the first of the antlers (including covering them in white (greaseproof paper)) and
- Diane started building the “Face-arms”.

Barring any covid shutdown interruptions. we are on-track to complete the head in the next couple of weeks.

Apart from all this i cooped Lachlan and Fabian to assist with prep of scales and spines on the BSH kids' Dragon and Koi sculpture. |

What did you think was successful about the workshop?	One of my favourite parts of this kind of work is seeing members of the community engaged in problem solving and getting into the zone with their making. Its great seeing people who don't really know each other come together and work out (and execute) elegant solutions to novel problems - like how do you get a cardboard eye mask to sit right on a giant cardboard deer skull? or how. am i going to get facearms to look lifelike when made of cardboard, hot glue and tape.
What did you learn about the workshop?	a variation on the cheesey Field of Dreams quote “build it and they will come”. My version... if you can get them to come, they will build it.
Can you share any ideas for future implementation?	@@Can you share any ideas for future implementation@@
