Reflective Notes

*Note: Please use * (space space * space) before each dot point.*

What did you think was successful about the workshop?

- people are keen to make.
- people love the idea of a structured project they can adopt
- people are inspired about the ideas in the well.

What did you learn from the workshop?

* there are common themes in the things - rainbows, undersea, unicorns, colour

- these theme were present in 2018 - Why? riffed on this question with participants - discussed how these things belong to an "other space" thats different to their everyday life and exciting to think about.
- i was keen to make sure i didnt waste early adopters time
- but also explained we wouldn't make any big decisions until more people in the group. (*)
- people want to be able to view well at home
- people like the idea of being able to follow from home if life gets in the way, and to be able to communicate and work their own hours.
- interested in working on stuff during open lab too.

*brief and watching video is a good idea, lots of quest and answer during

| Can you note any ideas for future implementation? | need a dedicated facilitator or move workshopy part of the session to before open lab (where we are delivering content or facilitating process-ongoing work can happen during Open Lab) hard to get photos (not alot to photograph - and difficult to do three things at once.

- maybe making in a public space would attract passers by. especially during the weekend.
- maybe the 2018 video and a call to action would drive new participants

Are there any actions arising from this workshop?

* Activate Teams

- Activate public view or participant view of wiki

Can you share any memorable moments or quotes from participants?

* Key messages, objectives and barriers to engagement sections of creative brief resonated well and explained what we are trying to achieve.

- was great to be able to take the guys down to work with Peter on shark when session ran out of steam (*)
- was good for them to see peter working on the shark

What was/were your favourite Imagined Thing/s from the workshop?

didn't decide on anything today but will choose something early next week.

Did you capture any images to share from the workshop? (optional)
