PROJECT REPORT-074

[REDACTED] IS PROVING TROUBLING.

Today's scheduled results from [REDACTED] arrived at 15.00 hours. This has progressed as expected, and there have been no hardware or software malfunctions. However, these results are concerning. As expected, [REDACTED] plans would indeed save the planet if they were enacted, but this would be at great risk to public safety, and ethical practice. The suggested resolution would effectively render a person with no free will. He has also proposed the dismantling of several major governments, and the whole-sale destruction of entire countries. I refuse to believe that this is the most effective strategy for "saving the planet". I am not sure if [REDACTED]'s unsavory thinking was caused by insufficient data, or if our parameters for his prime-directive were too vague. Whatever the case, he must unfortunately be deactivated until these faults can be identified specifically and corrected. Once they learn of [REDACTED]'s decisions, the government will almost certainly cut our funding. As regrettable as this is, I believe we may have to admit that this project has been a failure.
